It'll never get across the ocean anyhow."

The police regard this as proof that Verkayck was mixed up with the business of planting fire bombs on the ships that were plundered of sugar.

Verkayck has been under watch a long time. The police has seen him often with a German of means who lives in this vicinity and has done a great deal to help the German cause. His name has never appeared in print as a German sympathizer, but he is known to have contributed money freely—always through a third person.

In the Federal Building to-day Judge Harlan B. Howe of Vermont swore in the November Grand Jury, which at once began an investigation of the charges against Fay, Schotz, Max Breitung, Dr. Herbert Kienzle and the other alleged bomb conspirators. E. Warren Hart, a dealer in linens at No. 621 Broadway, is foreman of the jury.
